The question of delinquent water users came up for further discussion and it was reported that many of these have paid their bills since last meeting. Many dog owners who had not acquired a license for their dog, have now done so and for those few still without a license Vernon Bormet was instructed to call on the owners and inform them of the heavy fine they will be subject to for violating the village dog ordinance.

As Mr. Hentsch mows the weeds along sidewalks and parkways, these get into his mower. The board stated residents who have trees and cannot dispose of them properly should call George Bernacki who will take care of such trees.

Mayor John Scarth suggested that the officers of the drainage ditch district, north of the village, officers of Sunny Acres Home Owners association and members of the street and alleys committee meet together and solve the problem of drainage, which has been an unsolved problem for several years.

EASY CHURCH ATTENDANCE

Just as easy as attending a drive-in movie are outdoor church services conducted in Cal. by the Whitfield Estates Presbyterian church. No need of putting on one's best finery to go to church. Simply drive into the outdoor church in your car and an attendant or "usher" installs a speaker on your car window.

Only started a month ago, the outdoor church has already outgrown its facilities of 200 acres. "We are forced to turn away cars each Sunday," Dr. B. L. Bowman, pastor, reports, "and we are now endeavoring to acquire additional land for expansion."

Prior to moving to the present location, the church conducted weekly services in a drive-in theater. The congregation originally planned to erect a traditional church edifice, but after the one year drive-in experience plans were changed and the drive-in church was established. The unique development has already received publicity in "The Stars and Stripes," newspaper for the U. S. Armed Forces throughout the globe, and Parade Magazine, Sunday Magazine supplement, in addition to United Press and Associated Press wire service dispatches.

The Passing Scene

by Irwin Caplan

"There's still nothing wrong with the old reflexes. Notice the neat way I avoided that joker in the car back there?"

HAY FEVER SEASON

By Science Features

In the 16th century a poet said: "What's one man's poison... is another's meat or drink." That still holds true. The breath of sweet summer air may be pure pleasure for some people but others who suffer from hay fever dread the scent of flowers and grass for the discomfort it foretells.

Hay fever is caused by an allergy to plant pollens that are carried in the air. Fall hay fever, the most common type, lasts from August until early winter, and is due to ragweed. Spring and summer pollen, dust, feathers, and other particles also bother many of the susceptible.

Wet, burning eyes and a stuffed-up, running nose are the symptoms of this allergy. Severe cases also suffer from lack of sleep, loss of appetite and possibly infection.

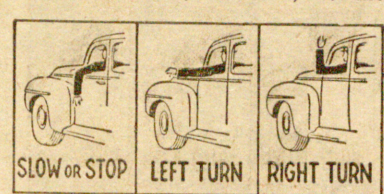

There are several treatments which give partial relief. A series of injections may somewhat desensitize the person to pollen. Various anti-histamine drugs, though not a cure, may relieve some symptoms during an attack. A new aid are the hydrocortisone drugs such as Cortril. Recently, a Brooklyn, N. Y. doctor reported that "of ten ragweed hay fever patients, 7 obtained excellent relief; 2, marked relief and 1, moderate relief," by taking oral doses of this hormone.

Since hay fever sufferers are unavoidably aware of their malady, they also take other precautions to ease the ill effects, such as going to pollen-free areas when possible, using a kind of filter mask at night and keeping in good physical condition.

Tips on Traffic Safety

You can drive better and safer when you know what the other fellow is going to do, so let him know what you are planning to do.

Before you slow down, stop, turn, change traffic lanes or pull out of a parking place be sure that you can do so safely. THEN, let the other driver know what you intend to do by giving the proper signal. It's the law. (Sections 65, 66, 67, Uniform Act Regulating Traffic)

Give your hand signals clearly by extending your arm well out of the car window. All signals should be given at least 100 feet before you turn or stop, but not while you are turning. Both hands should be on the wheel then.

A copy of the booklet, "Rules of the Road," containing many traffic safety suggestions, will be sent to you free upon request. Write to EDWARD J. BARRETT, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

Canadian Nickel For The World

Rabies Still a Danger Problem

Although summer is nearly over, rabies in animals particularly household pets is still a problem, says Cook county health director Dr. John B. Hall. In fact, Dr. Hall says, past experience has shown that most cases of rabies occur in the last four months of the year - after the supposed "dog days" are over.

So far this year 39 animals have been positively identified as having died from rabies in suburban Cook county, Dr. Hall reports. Most of these animals were from southern Cook county, Bremen and Worth townships having nine each and Thornton township having six.

Dr. Hall suggests that all animal bites, no matter how trivial, be reported to police and examined by a physician.

And he emphasizes that the law requires that all dogs not on a leash or confined to an enclosed area must be annually inoculated against rabies and wear an identifying tag to that effect.

The total number of animals which died from rabies in suburban Cook county in past years is:

1946-44
1947-52
1948-62
1949-35
1950-13
1951-1
1952-1
1953-42

In 1953, one human died of the disease as well.

4-H Renews Public Speaking Program

Members of the state 4-H extension staff announce that they have renewed the 4-H Public Speaking program for 1954.

This means that Illinois 4-H boys and girls who want to learn how to be more effective public speakers can get the training in that project this year.

County and state awards will be offered. A county wide final public speaking contest will be held in each county by the farm and home advisers for agricultural and home economics club members. A gold filled medal will be awarded to the outstanding county boy and girl in each county having a contest.

State winners will be selected from among the county winners in the state contest to be held in the Junior Home Economics building at the Illinois State Fair on Friday, August 12. Awards will be a 19 jewel watch for the high ranking boy and a set of silverware for the top girl.

In addition, two scholarships of $200 each and two all expense trips to the 32nd National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November will be given to a boy and a girl selected from among the state winners. For the fifth straight year, Pura Oil Company is providing the awards in the program.

AVIATION AID

Nickel alloys, because of their strength and resistance to heat and oxidation, have contributed greatly to the efficiency, safety, durability and light weight of both the standard airplane engine and the jet engine.

TVA RUNS IN BLACK BY SKIPPING TAXES

Rather than paying its own way as it claims, the Tennessee Valley Authority last year actually based on a $47 million deficit, a telephone company official recently declared.

Colter H. Moore, chairman of the Arkansas Power and Light Company, told the American Power Conference that if TVA had paid the taxes other utilities do and had paid only 3% interest on the money advanced to it from the U.S. Treasury, its deficit would have been $47 million.

GET RID OF METAL DROP CORD SOCKETS

If you still have metal pull-chain sockets on ceiling drop cords in your home, a little rewiring or some new fixtures will be a wise investment in safety.

Frank Andrew, rural electrification specialist at the University of Illinois, College of Agriculture, says such fixtures are particularly dangerous in the basement. Wet basement floors increase the severity of any electrical shock you may get from a metal pull-chain socket. What might be only a mild tingle if you were on dry floor can turn into severe jolt if your feet are damp.

Porcelain, plastic or hard rubber sockets are the best replacements for the outmoded metal sockets, Andrew says. In many cases, you should replace drop cord and sockets with simple porcelain ceiling fixtures controlled by a wall switch or insulated pull chain. A qualified electrician or electrical contractor is your best guide in such rewiring projects.

Back To School Via Buses Change From 'Good Old Days'

More than 7,000 drivers will take the road in yellow and black school buses this month as the 1954-1955 Illinois school year begins.

The "good old days" when the rural student often had to hike several miles to his school are gone now. This year more than a quarter of a million children will be taken to school and home again each school day.

Most school buses, now a familiar sight on Illinois highways, are owned and operated by the local school districts. The safety of every bus and its passengers is the keynote of the pupil transportation program and is rigidly supervised by the office of Vernon L. Nickell, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Standards of safety and comfort for Illinois children far exceed the national requirements. A fifteen page circular issued by Nickell's office even covers such specifications as the depth of the seat cushions and the design of the door latches.

Local school district officials shoulder the responsibility of keeping the buses in top condition to meet exacting state safety inspections twice a year. They also train the children in emergency drills and screen and hire responsible drivers.

Nickell's office "sets" standards for safe operation of the buses and works with the Illinois General Assembly for laws that add to their safety while on our highways.

The result of this cooperation between state and local school authorities is highlighted by the fact that last school year not one Illinois child was fatally injured during the millions of miles traveled by our school buses.

Transportation of our children calls for special precautions that are not necessary for regular bus lines.

For example, bumper guards on the rear of the buses must be so designed as to prevent hitching rides. The height of the door steps must be designed for shorter legs. To prevent the youngsters from sticking their arms out of windows, the use of split sash type windows is becoming common.

Driving thirty or forty children to school each day calls for skill, reliability, and never ending patience. Each driver must supervise his young passengers' behavior, their emergency safety drills and even teach them how to sit in their seats properly.

The driver must enforce rules that won't allow Johnny to take his dog to school in the bus with him or let Mary run from seat to seat visiting with her friends.

In a bus filled with healthy, happy children there is bound to be noise and confusion. However, from 1942 until today when the

FOOD FOR MENTAL HEALTH

By Science Features

Good nutrition is necessary for good health, both mental and physical. Most people know that a well-balanced diet—one that contains sufficient minerals, carbohydrates and vitamins—is necessary for growth, energy and normal body functions. But new studies now show that a severe vitamin deficiency is known to be among the causes of at least 11 nervous or mental disorders.

Dr. Robert A. Peterman, medical director of J. B. Roring and Co., and Dr. Robert S. Goodhart, scientific director of the National Vitamin Foundation, summarized 74 recent studies. They reported that disorders due to vitamin deficiencies involved such symptoms as mental deterioration or depression, hysteria, defective memory, loss of sense of location, hallucinations, ideas of persecution, anxiety and irritability.

The survey points out that large dosages of vitamins, as high as 10 times the amount required for normal nutrition, administered for long periods of time may be necessary to aid sufferers. Anti-stress formulas such as ASF have already been devised to meet the vitamin requirements for acute stress situations.

Major emphasis in the report is on the B vitamins. Lack of thiamine (B-1) may cause forgetfulness, difficulty in orderly thinking and insomnia. Insufficient riboflavin (B-2) may result in mental depression, visual disturbances and inability to concentrate, while not enough niacin may produce apprehension and anxiety, according to the study.

ADOPT RESOLUTION
AT AUG. 25 MEETING
OF IEA LEADERS

Approximately 200 leaders of the Illinois Education Association while assembled in a conference at Normal, Illinois, August 25, adopted the following resolution.

Whereas, The president and officers of the state, divisional, sectional, and local professional affiliated units of the Illinois Education Association assembled at Normal, Illinois, August 22-25, 1954, have become alarmed with the rapidly increasing problems of the public common schools and the public institutions of higher learning caused by:

- Rapidly increasing school enrollments.
- A decreasing efficiency in the assessments under the general property tax.
- The ever - decreasing state factors applied for the purpose of bringing assessments up to true value.

- The insufficiency of state appropriations as compared with the school financial needs.
- The inability of many districts to provide badly needed buildings.
- The difficulty in securing and retaining a sufficient number of qualified teachers.
- The ever-increasing pupil load assigned to teachers, and
- The gradual reduction in school services and offerings thereby threatened; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we hereby call upon the teaching profession, the lay public, the school boards, the legislature and the state governmental officials to study seriously the above and related problems, and to determine a positive course of action to alleviate the same in protection of the educational welfare of the youth of Illinois, and in the interests of the future well-being of the state and nation.

Christian Citizens

Lesson for September 12, 1954

SUPPOSE the dream of some scientists comes true, and there is built a "space platform" buzzing around the earth, some thousand miles away, like a little moon? Suppose this thing is equipped with telescopic sights and atomic weapons? Such a thing — and it is now technically possible — would give its possessors power over the whole earth such as no conqueror has ever had. The question then would be: What kind of people are running the thing? Do they really take an interest in the human race, or suppose they didn't care, and started blasting away some fine morning just for fun? E. B. White's famous story, "The Morning of the Day They Did It," imagines what would happen then.

Learning to Belong

That may not be true as prophecy, — a continent, a planet, blown out of existence because two men who do not care anything about it, or anything else, take a notion to blast it. But it is quite true as a picture of human attitudes. Neither soldier nor senator nor common citizen will do anything to help a country or people for whom he feels no special attraction; and he may very easily injure or destroy it without much conscience. In war, this is a picture of how each nation looks at the enemy; in "peace," it is a picture of the lack of social responsibility which plagues every country in the world. "Do what you like with it—it isn't mine," may possibly be all right when you are talking about your neighbor's tomato-plant or automobile. But when you are talking about your neighbor's nation, you are talking about something that is just as much yours as his. We all begin life as little egotists, each of us the center of his little high-chair universe. By degrees we learn to say "we" about our family, our gang, maybe our town or high school or lodge. But it takes church members a long time—some of them—to say "we" about the church, and even longer for even Christian citizens to say "we" about their country. Having no special feeling for it, they don't care what happens to it, and may even take part in doing it harm, just because they have never learned to belong to it.

Christian Citizens Needed

The Apostle Paul was a citizen of a great empire, and he was proud of the fact. He believed that every Christian, whether a citizen or not, had certain duties of obedience, responsibility and support, toward the Roman Empire. If this was true in those days, when the government was non-Christian, corrupt and oppressive, when Christians had for the most part no chance whatever in sharing the responsibilities of government, how much more true it is in a democracy! With professed Christians numbering about half the total population, with the vote in our hands and our representatives no farther away than the nearest mailbox, we have even more reason and opportunity to make our presence and our ideas felt, as Christian citizens, than could have been possible in the time of Paul and Nero. Any Christian who is old enough to read and write, might well ask himself a few questions to see if he is much of a Christian.

Quiz for Christian Citizens

Do you know the names of your senator, your congressman? Do you vote for them? Why? Do you know whether they are Christians by profession? Do you know how they have been voting on important questions? If so, do you find that they have been taking a Christian attitude as reflected in their votes?

Have you ever taken the time and spent the money to write or wire your congressman or senator to let him know how you and your neighbors stand on important matters? Have you felt that international affairs were somehow beyond your scope, or have you realized that bad relationships between nations have always brought death to happy homes? Do you realize that our nation, and others, have developed weapons of such terrible force that to use them can destroy the race of man? Do you have any idea what your congressman and senator, your personal representatives, are thinking and doing?

The pearl - the soul - was all, is here."

Are We Our Brothers Keeper?

People sometimes say that paying for a sewage treatment plant means paying for goods we never receive and never see. Other towns, downstream, seem to get all the benefit from our expense. Just how does a town benefit from building a sewage treatment plant? For one thing, an unpleasant and possibly dangerous condition is removed from the community's back door. Rats and "lies often" "commute" between a town's sewer outfall and its homes and streets. A recent study has shown that cities which have sewage treatment are more free of insect and rodent-borne diseases than those which have not.

Also, building a treatment

100th Anniversary Of Office

plant serves as an example for other cities in the region. Having cleaned up their own wastes, the citizens of a town can demand that others do so - including those cities upstream which affect the town's water. Often the construction of a single plant has started a "chain reaction" to clean up an entire waterway.

Finally, and perhaps most important of all, we have a moral obligation to treat our own wastes. No civilized person throws his trash and garbage into his neighbor's yard; and this is exactly what we are doing if we do not treat our sewage. Waste treatment is just one of the thousand ways in which our own well-being is tied in with the well-being of our neighbors. In our modern world we are, indeed, our brother's keeper; and he is ours.

Water Supply And Sewage Disposal Is A Serious Problem

Prospective builders and buyers of home in rural and unincorporated areas where no public water supply and sewage disposal systems are available should be warned that they are faced with a serious problem, according to an announcement by the Cook County Clean Streams Committee.

The county zoning ordinance provides that a building permit in an unincorporated area shall be issued only after provision has been made for a safe water supply and sewage disposal facilities designed in accordance with standards approved by the county health department. Many incorporated communities not yet served by public systems have the same requirement. The FHA requires similar approval of plans and specifications for private sanitary facilities.

William N. Erickson, president of the county board, urges all home builders, architects, contractors, plumbers and well-drillers, and all real estate developers, to obtain, free of charge, a bulletin prepared by the Sanitary Engineering Division of the Cook County Department of Public Health, located at 737 S. Wolcott Ave., Chicago 12. This illustrated bulletin contains complete information and specifications for wells, septic tanks and seepage systems.

There are stringent requirements as to where a septic tank and its tile field for disposal of the liquid effluent may be located with reference to the lot lines and to any well. The materials and manner of construction are specified. For a single family of seven persons or less, the septic tank must have a minimum capacity of 500 gallons. For larger families, the capacity must be increased 75 gallons for each person in excess of seven.

In addition to detailed specifications for the seepage system and the trenches in which the tile lines are laid, the bulletin is accompanied by an outline of the procedure to be followed in the "percolation test" to determine the suitability of the soil for a subsurface seepage system. This test, which must be made by a qualified engineer, consists of digging a number of post holes in the area where it is proposed to establish the seepage field. There should be at least one test hole per acre, dug to the depth at which it is proposed to lay the tile - generally 18 to 24 inches.

After the holes have been thoroughly moistened, each is filled with six inches of water. The average time required for this water to seep away determines the required area in the bottom of the seepage trench system, depending also upon the number of bedrooms in the dwelling. If more than six hours are required for the water to fall six inches, the soil is unsuitable for a seepage system. In such a case, the building permit will not be issued unless a more satisfactory system is provided for disposing of the flow from a septic or settling tank.

About Criminal Court Actions

The judges of the Cook county Criminal court sent 1,245 defendants to prison in the last court year, which was the biggest in history, the annual report released Sunday disclosed.

The report, presented by Sidney R. Olsen, clerk, showed that not one of 227 accused murderers was sentenced to the electric chair. A breakdown of murder convictions wasn't reported. Last year one murderer was sentenced to the electric chair, compared with six the year before.

Chief Justice Charles S. Dougherty of the Criminal court and his associates handled more business in the last year than has passed through the court in other calendar years, but left more than the usual number of cases pending for the new court.

There are 533 pending indictments, compared with 373 a year ago and 462 the previous year, the old high. The gain is attributed to a rise in crime and the continuing drive against narcotic sales.

In addition to the 373 indictments pending when Judge Dougherty took charge of the court a year ago, 219 old cases were reinstated. These and the 2,704 new indictments gave the court a record total of 3,356 cases for the year.

The judges disposed of 2,823 cases, compared with 2,873 a year ago.

The court convicted 2,038 defendants, a new high and three above the record set last year. In addition to the 1,245 sent to prison, 224 were sentenced to county jail, 84 to the Bridewell, 41 women to the Dwight reformatory, and 16 young men to the Sheridan reformatory. Probation was granted to 342, compared with 520 a year ago. Another 42 were fined or sent to mental hospitals.

Acquittals were won by 362 defendants, 89 in jury trials and 273 by judges. There were 41 mistrials, compared with 51 a year ago. Sanity hearings moved down one, 74 in this court year against 75 the previous year.

The work of the court has been greatly increased by the relatively new post-conviction law, under which convicts may petition for new hearings if they allege their constitutional rights were violated.

The record number of post-conviction hearings, 1,591, occurred last year, against 1,219 in the court year just completed. The court disposed of 142 such petitions this year against 160 the previous year. In 1952, the first year the law went into operation, 555 post-conviction petitions were heard and 115 of them disposed.

The judges heard 1,550 habeas corpus writs, disposing of 903. The previous year 1,827 such writs were heard and 160 disposed.

Armed robbery defendants increased more than 50 per cent, 1,282 such defendants this term compared with 802 the last. Armed robbery and its associated crimes, unarmed robbery and assault with intent to commit robbery, headed the indictment list, with 334 which named 1,573 persons.

Burglary ranked second with 419 indictments against 724 defendants. Another 227 defendants were named in 185 murder indictments, which ranked third in types of criminal cases. The number of burglary and murder defendants both increased. There were 641 burglary defendants last year and 190 persons accused of murder a year ago. The number of persons indicted for possession of burglar tools increased eight times, 24 against 3 a year ago.

The report shows 129 persons were indicted for unlawful sale of narcotics and nine for unlawful possession. The respective figures for last year were 101 and 44.

Defendants indicted for rape dropped from 169 to 123.

Form Must Be Filed To Produce Wine

The grape season is at hand, and Wm. N. Woodruff, Assistant Regional Commissioner, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax, Chicago warned prospective wine makers that although the head of the family is allowed to produce tax free 200 gallons of wine per year for the use of his own family, he must first register his intention to produce such wine with the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax, Internal Revenue Service.

The prospective wine maker should secure forms for this purpose from the Supervisor in Charge, Chicago Branch Office, 17 North Dearborn Street, 17th floor, Chicago, Ill. (Mailing address P.O. Box 1144, Chicago 90, Ill.) and file these forms in duplicate with the Assistant Regional Commissioner, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax at the above address, five days before the production of wine is started. The authority granted by reason of filing these forms is effective for one year only, July 1 to June 30, and a new form must be filed for each year in which it is desired to produce wine for family use.

Mr. Woodruff stated that the exemption given under the Federal law for the production of tax free wine is only for family use and does not apply to an unmarried person, unless he qualifies as head of a family, or to a married man living apart from his family, or to the production of wine by corporations or partnerships for commercial purposes. Each year, Mr. Woodruff pointed out, a number of persons who have made wine for family use are taxed at the regular rate, according to the alcoholic content, and face criminal prosecution for the reason that they fail to register their intention to produce wine for family use.

Regional Commissioner

ROOT GERANIUM CUTTINGS FOR NEXT WINTER'S BLOOMS

At this time of year, tip growth on geraniums is well matured and ready for rooting says J. R. Kamp, flower specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Cut off the upper six or eight inches of a shoot with a sharp knife. Take off the lower leaves, plant the shoot in moist sand, and place in a shady place away from drafts. Keep the sand moist and do not let the cuttings wilt.

Speed up rooting process with special rooting powders from a garden supply store. With them, the time is cut to about three weeks.

After the cuttings have sprouted roots, pot them in a well-drained soil. The plants should bloom in late winter if you keep them in a sunny window. They will also be ready for use next summer in your garden.

PAINT CAN GIVE METAL ROOFS YEARS OF LIFE

A good paint job can add years of life to a metal roof on a farm, even if it is covered with rust, provided it is still sound.

But such a roof will surely fail to keep out rain in a few years if you continue to neglect it, says John Campbell, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Tests at the Illinois Experiment station have shown that a paint of 80% zinc dust and 20% zinc oxide is a soybean oil-seed oil carrier averaged almost 7 more years of protection before repainting was necessary.

If you put on the best quality galvanized roofing, you shouldn't have to worry about paint for 15 to 20 years, Campbell says. It is not necessary to paint over galvanized coating until the galvanizing begins to break down and rust shows through.

School Buses Ready To Roll

Thousands of Illinois school buses like the one pictured above will be on the road again this month as the 1954-1955 school year begins. Standards of safety are higher in Illinois than those required nationally and are supervised by the office of Vernon L. Nickell, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

SPRINGFIELD—More than 7000 drivers will take the road in yellow and black school buses this month as the 1954-1955 Illinois school year begins.

The "good old days" when the rural student often had to hike several miles to his school are gone now. This year more than a quarter of a million children will be taken to school and back home again each school day.

Most school buses, now a familiar sight on Illinois highways, are owned and operated by the local school districts. The safety of every bus and its passengers is the keynote of the pupil transportation program and is rigidly supervised by the office of Vernon L. Nickell, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Standards of safety and comfort for Illinois children far exceed the national requirements. A 15 page circular issued by Nickell's office even covers such specifications as the depth of the seat cushions and the design of the door latches.

Local school district officials shoulder the responsibility of keeping the buses in top condition to meet exacting state safety inspections twice a year. They also train the children in emergency drills and screen and hire responsible drivers.

Nickell's office sets standards for safe operation of the buses and works with the Illinois General Assembly for laws that add to their safety while on our highways.

The result of this cooperation between state and local school authorities is highlighted by the fact that last school year not one Illinois child was fatally injured during the millions of miles traveled by our school buses.

Transportation of children calls for special precautions that are not necessary for regular bus lines.

For example, bumper guards on the rear of the buses must be so designed as to prevent "hitching" rides. The height of the door steps must be designed for shorter legs. To prevent the youngsters from sticking their arms out of windows, the use of split sash type windows is becoming common.

Driving thirty or forty children to school each day calls for skill, reliability, and never ending patience. Each driver must supervise his young passengers' behavior, their emergency safety drills and even teach them to sit in their seats properly.

The driver must enforce rules that won't allow Johnny to take his dog to school in the bus with him or let Mary run from seat to seat visiting with her friends.

In a bus filled with healthy, happy children there is bound to be noise and confusion. However, from 1942 until today when the number of students carried in school buses has more than quintupled, the behavior of Illinois students has been outstanding.

They look on the yellow and black bus and its driver as their friends, who get them to school on time—and safely.

WASHINGTON WEEK

Our Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act was passed in 1934. That Act gave the President the tariff and trade making powers that the Constitution placed in the Legislative Branch. Essentially it was an abdication of power by the Congress, a dodging of an obligation and a responsibility that constitutionally belongs to the Congress. That Act can be said to be the result of a strong-willed Executive working with and upon a weak-willed Congress.

The Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act was an emergency measure, definitely described as such. It contained a three-year limitation, and gave President Roosevelt the power to make trade agreements with other nations.

Like most New Deal emergency measures the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act has been extended until today it is twenty years old. Has it achieved the objectives that it was supposed to achieve: namely, world peace, world prosperity, universal good will, amity among nations?

What About World Peace?

During the 20 years the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act has been non the books we have had World War II. We have had the Korean Incident. We have had the so-called Spanish Civil War. We have had seven years of war in Indo-China. We have had trouble between England and Egypt, between India and Pakistan. We have had Communist Russia extending the Iron Curtain beyond her borders until she now has control and domination over 900 million people instead of the 300 million Russians she had at the close of World War II. Has the Act helped to establish world peace?

What About World Prosperity?

Are we any nearer world prosperity today than we were in 1934? To bring about world prosperity we have given away over $100 billion in the last 15 years—$60 billion Lend-Lease and $50 billion since World War II—to say nothing of the nearly $200 billion we have spent for National Defense in the Cold War. Has world prosperity been aided by the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act? Certainly our own prosperity has not been advanced, because we are in debt today to the tune of $300 billion—more than all the rest of the world owes all put together; and more than twice as much as all the nations of Europe owe all put together.

What About Good Will—Amity Among Nations?

Is good will or amity among nations any nearer today than it was before 1934? To be specific, has the relationship between France and Germany improved since 1934? Between Pakistan and India? Palestine and Arabia? Italy and Yugoslavia?—to say nothing about the conditions in the Far East.

What about internal dissensions and strife? Italy with her 36 per cent Communist vote in the last election; France with 24 per cent of her national legislature composed of Communist members; Nationalist China and Communist China?

BABSON SAYS-

Copyright, 1954, Publishers
Financial Bureau, Inc.

A prominent educational institution was recently presented a life-sized sculpture of my head for its library. This gift came from a group of admirers of my 33 years of writing these weekly columns. Naturally, I am pleased. It has aroused within me thoughts which each reader should consider regarding his head and what it contains!

First, my reader, remember you have in your head - as you read this column - the most marvelous machine in the world. It is the greatest creation of God, the workings of which have never been understood by any scientist or physiologist.

Second, psychologists tell us that we Americans are using our most wonderful brains only to about 2 1/2% of capacity. Some greater thinkers have perhaps reached 5% or more; but probably the men who run our government at Washington or who head our corporations average only about 3% efficiency.

For the "long pull" the above thought should make us very hopeful. If the brain of the average high - school graduate works, even after graduation, at only 2% capacity, think what this would mean if this average of 2% could be increased to 4%! It could result in doubling the prosperity of our nation; doubling both our production and our standard of living. Surely, we all have a gold mine in our head.

Considering the entire world, the brains of its three billion people probably are working at less than 1% efficiency. If this average could be increased only slightly, think what it would mean in better living and a higher life for these billions. In addition, it should result in greater increased foreign trade for us all. The "chain reaction" caused by a small increase in the efficiency of our brains is beyond the most optimistic dreams.

This need not mean that we are headed for a mechanistic age. One trouble today is that we all need to catch up spiritually. Brains have made it possible for us to travel faster, hear over long distances, and now - by television - see what is going on anywhere. But, what have the inventive brains and chemical laboratories done to bring us nearer to God? I forecast that a changing attitude is ahead.

Increasing the efficiency of our brains to 4% or more does not necessarily mean inventing new miraculous machines or discovering free power from solar radiation or gravity. I further forecast that use of increased brain power will result in helping us to make correct decisions and will give us the will power to carry out these decisions. This power is our greatest need. Lack of concentration and lack of faith are due to our weak, unused brains. In fact, it is hard to draw the line between physical brain power and spiritual faith power. Health and happiness are dependent upon both.

Once children were considered an asset. Today too many families look upon children as liabilities or luxuries. If you, my reader, come in this latter group, please think of the wonderful brains you can create and nurture by raising and training more children. This may be your best opportunity for serving mankind. Furthermore, the brains of these children may be far better insurance for your old age than any paper policy you can buy.

One more thought: If you are a woman who loses your job during this "push-button" age which we are entering, do not be discouraged. Remember that

HUGH SIGN TO HONOR INVENTION OF INCANDESCENT LAMP

A unique illuminated sign has been put in operation to honor Thomas Edison's invention in 1879 of the first commercial incandescent lamp.

It is a specially designed spectacular, which has been mounted at the second and third floor levels of the Commonwealth Edison building in downtown Chicago.

The sign, which will be operated through the balance of 1954 every day from 7:00 a.m. to midnight, is one of several features planned for Light's Diamond Jubilee which is being observed this year.

It consists of a huge revolving light bulb twelve feet high and six feet in diameter. The bulb is covered with a myriad of small mirrors each two inches square. Lights play on the lamp as it revolves to give the appearance of a jeweled bulb.

According to Federal Sign and Signal Corporation, the builder, the display is the only creation of this type.

LARGEST GENERATION NOW ENTERING SCHOOL

One of the unforeseen consequences of the last World War is that it produced an unprecedented crop of youngsters in the United States at the very time when, from the standpoint of education, it is most difficult to care for them.

This is one of the explanations by Earl H. Hanson, superintendent of schools, Rock Island, for part of the growing shortage of teachers. Mr. Hanson is chairman of the public relations committee of the Illinois Education Association.

"The smallest generation is the generation of the depression - the one graduating from college now. The largest generation the country has ever had is the one now entering first, second and third grades," he points out.

"Obviously, the smallest generation must provide teachers for the largest generation," he said in an address in his community recently.

Though births in Illinois dea far greater opportunity is awaiting you to stay at home and help develop the brains and souls of your family - or to teach, or even "baby sit." These also have great opportunities.

clined steadily from 1925-1933. They rose slowly until 1945 when they jumped to an unprecedented high, at which they have remained. With the births of 1948 entering first grade this fall, there will be little substantial increase in the number of young people reaching high school graduation each year until 1961 when the effects of the post-war rise in births will show itself in an abrupt rise.

WATER WITCHES FIND STREAMS WITH THREE FORKS

Water witches are making water wishes come true.

Call it art or accident, science or superstition, but water witches and their tree-branch divining rods still play an important part in the hunt for life-giving water.

In fact, their skill continues to be in demand in this technical age just as it was centuries ago, according to Davey tree experts.

Water witches, or dowzers, usually have their own favorite branches to use in their dowsing operations. Popular trees for water-hunting sticks include the apple, beech, willow, hazel, peach as well as many others.

While innumerable kinds of forked branches can become magic rods in the hands of experienced dowzers, nothing will work for some would-be water witches who are not endowed with the necessary "mystic power." Holding his forked stick in front of him, the dowser walks slowly over the area where he wants to locate water. When he reaches a spot where water lies beneath the earth's surface, the stick automatically points downward. Why it becomes agitated, no one knows. Not even the water witch.

CHICAGO MOTOR CLUB PRESIDENT HAYES EXPLAINS STATE LAWS

If you meet a school bus while driving, keep in mind that state laws require specific safety steps, Chas. M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club today warned motorists in Illinois and Indiana.

"Failure to stop when meeting a bus which is discharging or receiving passengers can result in arrest," Hayes added. "Numerous motorists are not aware that they must also stop for school buses on the opposite side of the roadway on which they are traveling."

"Now that school is opening, thousands of school children will be exposed to this traffic hazard daily. Only with the cooperation of motorists can we reduce the risk and keep our children from death and injury."

The club president pointed out that in Illinois the law applies even where a parkway separates the opposing lanes of traffic. However, in Indiana the motorist need not stop if the opposing traffic lanes have a parkway or a dividing strip unimproved for travel 20 feet or more wide. But the law provides that the motorist must "proceed with due caution for the safety of the children."

Apart from the legal side, motorists must remember that school children are unpredictable. In their eagerness to get to classes or back home, they are apt to dash into the path of an auto. It's up to the motorist to stay alert and avoid striking them.

"Children are America's stake in the future - your children and your neighbors. Let's help keep them safe," Hayes said.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The practical value of understanding God as the source of all true substance will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday, September 12, in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Substance."

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (301:17-20): "As God is substance and man is the divine image and likeness, man should wish for, and in reality has, only the substance of good, the substance of Spirit, not matter."

From the Bible will be read the following passages from Psalms (37:3-5): "Trust in the Lord, and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed. Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart. Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass."

Miss Marie Chalfant, who spent the summer with her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Williams, left Wednesday to return to her teaching position in Pana where she has taught the first grade more than 40 years.

Mrs. Garrett Cummins and daughter, Mrs. Roy Walker, visited Mrs. Oscar Morgan in Chicago, Tuesday.

Mrs. Roy Walker, Mrs. Garrett Cummins and Mrs. Harwood Stellwagen attended a committee meeting, Tuesday evening, at the Marley Community Baptist church to help plan the supper and bazaar to be held at the church Sept. 16.

Lynne Cardemon, a newcomer to Maue school, was surprised and pleased Thursday, when the lower grades, led by their teacher, Mrs. Helen Lembke, sang, Happy Birthday in honor of her 7th birthday.

Frank Regan of New York City, N.Y. will be a guest of Mr.

and Mrs. Henry Cripps for a few days this week.

Three of Maue's young ladies were heard discussing a new girl to the school. "She seems to be nice," observed one. "Yes, I think I'll like her too," agreed another. "She is all right," decided the other. "She is a good baseball player."

If Tommy Cripps could handle a bat as well as he can a golf club, Maue's baseball team would have very few come title worries. Tommy spent much of his vacation playing golf with his father and the two had the pleasure of winning a father and son golf tournament.

Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Culp were his mother, Mrs. Nell Culp, his nephew, Charles Whalen and the latter's grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Ellis, all of Chicago. Mr. Whalen entertained with movies taken on a recent vacation in Mexico.

Tell Of Homemade Farm Elevator

A homemade elevator installed in the four-story laying house of Clarence Schroeder. Will county farmer, was pictured and described this month in one of the national farm publications.

In its current issue, Capper's Farmer reported on the handy rig Schroeder devised when he converted a dairy barn to a house for layers. He uses the elevator to carry food and supplies to the upper three floors of the house and to carry eggs back down to ground level.

The elevator is powered by a ½-ton Yale chain hoist, said the farm magazine. Supporting posts were made by spiking together three 2 by 6's. A slot cut in each end of the elevator platform fits over 2 by 4 pieces bolted to the supporting posts to form tracks. Self-feeders on each floor can be filled from the elevator.

HOLD EACH OTHER?

The driver of a sightseeing carriage was asked how many passengers the vehicle could accommodate. "Well, that depends on the passengers," he replied.

"Generally it holds four, but if they're better acquainted it holds six."
